Fall Winter Collection

"Don't try to make me grow up before my time..."
(Louisa May Alcott, Little Women; 1868)

As we head back to winter's light we are proposing a very nostalgic children collection with a touch of romanticism and simple beauty.

Inspired by the March sisters in Little Women we imagine the chilly American northeast country, a big comfortable wooden house with a pale winter sunshine and snow outside.

In our particular universe we play with little Jo, Beth, Meg and Amy around the fire, we imagine them wearing wide skirts in neutral browns, we also like them reading mum's old story books with soft classic white blouses and romantic necklaces and finally we love to see how the little girls look out the window at the snow falling, wearing warm and timeless wool pullovers. This is a collection made with love and with the finest fabrics, using Liberty print fabrics, comfortable corduroy and pure merino wools.

Let's put a touch of innocence, joy and elegance for our little ones this winter season, for as Louis May Alcott said "let's be elegant or die"!

A young girl with long, wavy brown hair is smiling at the camera. She is wearing a large, fluffy white fur hat and a dress with a vibrant floral pattern in purple, red, and yellow on a light background. The dress has a prominent red collar. She is standing in front of a wooden wardrobe with vertical panels and brass-colored handles.

LET THEM BE LITTLE!

Who is behind the whole thing?

Mom of two girls, curious, enthusiast and obstinate, I began creating dresses a few years ago. Initially it was just a small personal hobby, but slowly the idea (a little crazy) to create a brand was growing inside.

With help (and lots of patience) from my other half, the art of the best dressmaker in the world and the occasional and necessary bumps in the road I created with all my love these girls clothing brand inspired from my little ones, lovingly called Milou and Pilou.

Charming dresses with the nostalgic look good that we all love, with the quality and warmth of pure fabrics, with pure and cosy shapes, looking for super comfortable outfits for the little ones.

Because girls are just girls once, and because we should never resign of quality and craftsmanship for little nice things.
